FAIR WORK EDUCATION AND INFORMATION PROGRAM

The Commonwealth Government is funding the Australian Hotels Association to deliver a number of free information sessions on the new Fair Work Act 2009 and how it may affect hotels.

Sessions are taking place in all States and Territories and will help educate hoteliers about how to comply with new Australia's industrial relations laws. There are several industrial relations issues the seminars are covering, including:

- An overview of the Fair Work Act 2009
- An overview of the role and powers of Fair Work Australia;
- An overview of the powers of the Fair Work Ombudsman;
- Dismissals;
- Enterprise bargaining;
- Compliance with the act;
- Right of entry; and
- National Employment Standards.

The sessions are being presented by AHA industrial relations staff from across Australia.

If you would like to register for a session, please contact the AHA branch office in your State or Territory. You can also obtain more information by clicking on the link on the top right-hand corner of the home-page – this will enable you to access the website of the AHA branch in your State or Territory.
